ARNO

A perfect match: the brand and everything what it stands for.

We have designed and implemented even two stands for Sipgate at the Cebit in Hanover, namely in the look & feel of the head quarter: High tables, a modular wall system made of maritime pine, bar elements as well as floor panels in anthracite have brought the style of the office to the exhibition.

We have made full use of all crafts working in modern trade fair construction, in order to implement this modular fair stand concept: Close cooperation with the customer, our rented elements for the furnishing, integration of the own service area and sophisticated multi-media solutions for an infotainment that is adequate to the purpose of the stand.

The trade fair visitors have thus been able to inform themselves at Sipgate's stand in such a relaxed atmosphere, how business telephony nowadays works. With our fair stand concept the visitors were given the option to choose between bar, lounge, community table or high tables.

Because communication nowadays happens always, everywhere and in any form. And this not only in every detail at one stand, but at to stands at the same time.
